Dear Madam:

Received your letter and the ^{ply} cards yesterday, we note that you have changed the price. We are compelled to hold up the advertising until we hear from you, for this reason, the people are complaining about the prices. They claim that if we were playing two out of town teams, they wouldn't mind that price.

The Johnson Store and the Committee agreed on fifty-five cents for the grandstand and forty-cents for the bleachers including tax.

The passes which you sent we can use them, as they are marked forty cents for the grandstand.

More mainly the agreement was that each team and the Post would receive $33\frac{1}{3}\%$ of the net receipts, as you know the Government tax must be taken out. We are quite sure we can pack the park at the prices we have quoted to you.

We feel that if you cannot agree on these prices, first stated, it would be better to cancel that game for the good of the sport here.
